

The Dutch travel mostly by car ...

Kilometres travelled in 2010

Car 136,000,000,000 km

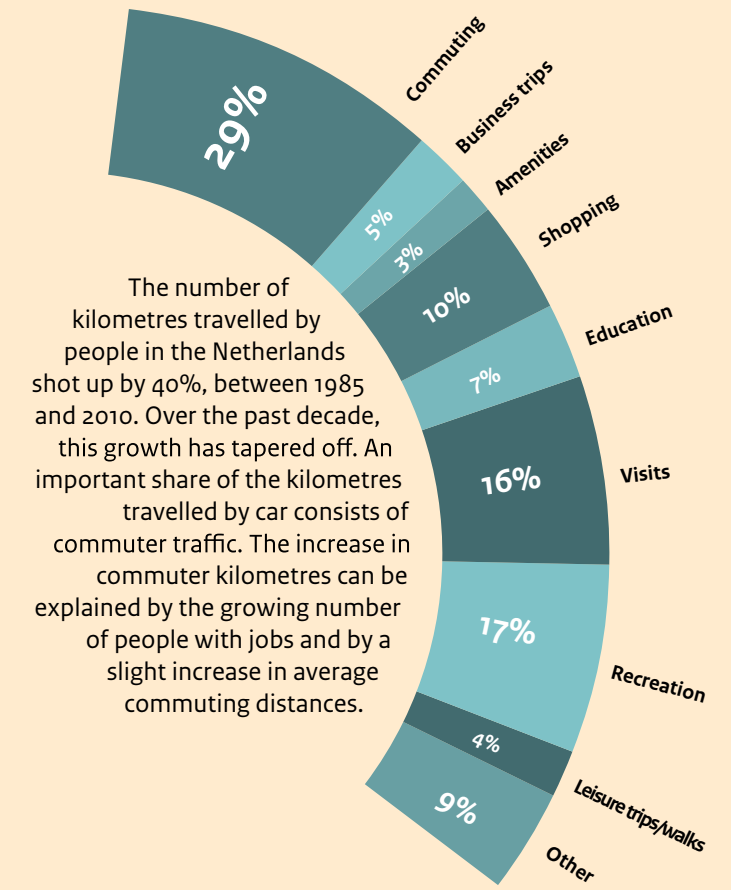

... but the strong growth in car transportation seems to have tapered off

183,000,000,000 km

Where do Dutch people travel to?

The number of kilometres travelled by people in the Netherlands shot up by 40%, between 1985 and 2010. Over the past decade, this growth has tapered off. An important share of the kilometres travelled by car consists of commuter traffic. The increase in commuter kilometres can be explained by the growing number of people with jobs and by a slight increase in average commuting distances.